Active member of clans. A golden farm is close to the highway, as it has a lot of food, open map, full of food, oil, villagers, zombie motherlode and gold. Every sunday around noon the daily supply caravan with lumber arrives, and you will find the 1st supply caravan. The loot crate is in the end of the arroyo just before the 1st supply caravan: A wooden box with the prize. The Indian authorities' security assessment of the 'Mumbai terrorists' was faulty, forcing the Indian intelligence agencies to show 'false evidence' to the courts and law enforcement agencies. In the midst of the trial, the Indian authorities leaked more clues and information about the 'Mumbai terrorists' that make the killers appear much more like the people who acted as 'sleeper cell' conspirators than the criminals they are supposed to have been. The pattern repeats itself with each day, and even the times of day. The killers who acted as the handlers and financiers were unknown to the Indian authorities at the time they were first arrested, some had never even been seen before. But now it turns out that they were all part of a 'sleeper cell' that was activated when the Indian authorities arrested the three who actually carried out the attacks, out of a number of people who were all friends, and knew each other well. The Indian authorities' security assessment of the 'Mumbai terrorists' was faulty, forcing the Indian intelligence agencies to show 'false evidence' to the courts and law enforcement agencies, and let them act in a manner that they would not have been allowed to act had the officials been more careful. The Intelligence agencies had developed a database of 10,000 to 15,000 people who were "potential terrorists", but there were only 6,000 people who were actually being monitored by the intelligence services. When the three killers of the 'Mumbai terrorists' were arrested, they were known to the Indian police only by the aliases that they used to go to their hideouts, and the officers doing the initial investigation only had photographs of the killers. The initial investigation done by the officer in charge of the 'Mumbai terror case', was still focussed on the mere possibility of the 'Mumbai terrorists' involvement. The fact that all three of the killers were well-known 82157476af
